

YOUR VOICE:

What's it like to walk a day in your shoes?

Tired of politicians talking about what their out-of-state corporate donors want for education, instead of listening to what WV education employees have said our students need?

AFT-WV is calling on all employees to share your stories!

We invite all employees to write op-ed and editorial submissions about the things going on in your classroom, buses, cafeterias and schools.

- ◇ How do you think proposals like charters and vouchers (ESAs) will affect your students?
- ◇ What resources or services would truly make a difference to the children you serve?
- ◇ Tell legislators and the public what it's like to walk a day in your shoes.

Send your submission to info@aftwv.org with "OP-ED" in the subject line. Try to keep your submission to 600 words or less, if possible and send it in Word document format or in the body of your email. Include your name, job title, school/ worksite and county of employment in the email so we may properly credit your submission.

These submissions will be part of AFT-WV's pre-special session campaign to inform parents and community members about the challenges facing our schools and to educate legislators on what our students and schools truly need to be successful.
