

The Trump administration wants to slash education and healthcare funding to pay for tax cuts for billionaires. Their plan to gut the U.S. Department of Education (DOE) and shift funding to block grants would:

- Rob 26 million students in poverty of critical services.
- Strip 7.5 million students with disabilities of special education support.
- Eliminate career and technical education for 12 million students—threatening future job opportunities.
- Cut Medicaid and student loans, leaving 10.3 million people without healthcare and 10 million working-class families without college access.

On March 4, educators, students, parents, and community allies will take action to demand support for public schools and oppose harmful cuts. Join the movement by urging lawmakers to stop the cuts, raising awareness of the impact, mobilizing communities, making headlines with stories and events, and organizing locally to defend vital services.
